

PIHE Dashboard - initial planning

Problem statement

Partners in Health Engage has many teams that are setting up meetings with members of congress in both the house and senate across many districts and states. These teams are all using the same few google sheets, which has become unwieldy because there are multiple sources of truth, they can be slow to load and teams have to know about each google sheet individually.

Goals for new tracker system:

- One system to be used both for TI (Training Institute - August event with ~400 users) and throughout the entire campaign year, to replace the multitude of spreadsheets we typically have
- For engage teams to have awareness of what other engagers are advocating with their target MoCs
- To create a system for note sharing between meetings to build strategy, and have a way to track how we move MoCs up the champions scale
- To make coordination between Engage teams for joint meetings easier
- To see our collective coverage of the congressional map, and to track when and how many meetings are happening across the network

Notes:

To view:

- Unzip the zipped folder
- Open `index.html` in chrome or other browser

Notes:

This is ONLY to show the general plan that I am thinking about and how information is grouped.

- All design details are going to change.
- Names and all information is demo data and not real.
- Editing will work in the final, but is locked down in the demo
- User login page not shown, a user will need an email and password to sign in to the platform. Further authentication TBD

What to look for:

- What information is missing?
- What information is not necessary?
- Do you like how the pages are laid out, how edits are done and how data is related to each other?
- Any further ideas or additions? (this is a v0 product, we can always add more later)

Feedback:

- [Name] - comment
- [Sam] - this looks so great!!! I couldn't open the file but I looked through the pictures. Some thoughts I have are 1) I'm not sure if we need the staff member column – this could be useful to have as “expert accompaniment” for hill day where some meetings will have an additional staff member or expert in them (and others would just say n/a). But throughout the year, I don't think needed. 2) I'd also want to make sure the scheduling leads contact info is easily accessible – it seems like maybe each name can be clicked to see more info but if not maybe adding a column for it. 3) I wonder if there's a way to keep the MoC office staff contacts up to date by automatically pulling from our politico pro account info? Maybe that's too complicated! 4) I'm not sure if this is how it works based on the pictures, but when you click on the state, and then each rep/sen, is that when the “meetings page” pops up? I think that would be good!

Options

Option agnostic:

- FE helper libraries:
 - Icons - lucide-react
 - WCAG accessibility warnings?
 - CI/CD?
 - Router?

Suggested option: supabase + Vercel/next.js

Frameworks:

FE components: react19 + typescript

Hosting: Vercel

FE builds & routing: Next.js

BE DB & auth: Supabase

Icons: lucide-react

E2E tests: playwright

CI/CD: Github Actions

Alternatives:

Looker studio

Cons:

strapi

Strapi is a CMS that is most useful for blogs and websites that have changing static content. It works less well for pages that

Fully self-hosted - <Hostingservice> + coolify

Coolify for full deploy

Pocketbase for DB

OR supabase for DB (self-hosted, coolify has a template)

Vite for FE build/deploy

Open questions:

Authentication

Other questions:

- Do we want to track representative actions/policies/opinions?
 - My suggestion is no and to rely on the TBFighter dashboard that has most of that already stored
- Does this need to be mobile compatible?
- What should authentication look like?

- Options:
 - email + password required
 - email magic word login
 - Invite only or general signup allowed?
 - Must have team invite?
- How can I get quality logo pictures?
